

PI - Alcohol policy - Prohibited and Restricted Items

GUIDE.TALKING_POINTS How do I become a licensed seller of wine on eBay?

To become a licensed seller of wine on eBay, start the registration process by uploading a copy of your alcohol license <https://ocswf.ebay.com/mudcwf?deptName=USe2MListing>. You also need to enter your eBay username in the comments section of the document upload page.

How long do I have to wait after I've requested to be a licensed wine seller?

It should take about 24-48 hours for us to review your documents and respond.

Why are approved wine sellers required to use an age verification shipping service?

Sellers have always been required to use a shipping service that will verify age upon delivery. We are making it available in the listing flow. A specific age verified shipping service option must be selected to create a listing and must be used when shipping wine.

You will need to select "Flat: Same cost to all buyers", then one of the following Age Verification Shipping services at the time of listing:

- Economy Shipping with Adult Signature Required
- Standard Shipping with Adult Signature Required
- Expedited Shipping with Adult Signature Required

GUIDE.SUMMARY Wine can be listed on the eBay US site (eBay.com) by eBay approved sellers only. No other alcohol products are allowed.

What is the policy?

Sellers must be approved by eBay before listing wine.

Approved sellers must abide by our Terms and Conditions when listing wine and include all required information in their description.

All other types of alcohol are not allowed, including wine from non-eBay approved sellers.

Collectible alcohol containers may be sold, but they must be empty.

Do not remove a listing if the seller says the collectibles container is empty and there are no other suspicious indicators. Take the seller at their word that the container is empty.

We

do NOT require pictures of the top and bottom of the container if seller has indicated the container is empty

Why does eBay have this policy? We require sellers and buyers to follow all federal and state laws and regulations when using eBay. Because the sale and shipping of alcohol is highly regulated in the United States, we generally don't allow sellers to list these products.
