

Revise a listing

You can usually make changes to your eBay listings, but there are some restrictions depending on what you want to change and when. There's no fee to revise a listing unless you add a special feature.

To revise a listing, select the button below:

<https://www.ebay.com/help/action?topicid=4356> Revise your listing - opens in new window or tab

You can revise your listings any time in My eBay, here's how:

- <http://my.ebay.com/ws/eBayISAPI.dll?MyEbay&gbh=1&CurrentPage=MyeBayAllSelling> Selling Activity - opens in new window or tab

1. Find the listing you'd like to revise.

2. Select Revise from More actions.

3. Make your changes, then select Revise it to save the updated listing.

4. You can also revise multiple listings in Seller hub, here's how:

- <https://www.ebay.com/sh/lst/active> active listings - opens in new window or tab

1. Check the box beside each listing you want to make a change to.

2. Select the Edit drop down to make your changes.

What changes can I make?

Here's an overview of what you can change and when you can do it:

For most listings on eBay, you can edit a listing title, add or change photos, and add optional listing upgrades at any time.

For fixed price (Buy It Now) listings and auction listings with more than 12 hours left and no bids, you can lower the price.

In most cases, you can't change the listing duration or format. However, you can send a fixed price listing to auction by going to <https://www.ebay.com/sh/lst/active> Seller Hub Active Listings - opens in new window or tab and selecting

Change to auction from the Actions menu

- If you change from fixed price to auction, you will not have the option to add a Buy It Now option
- The previous view and watcher information from the fixed price listing will not be carried over to the auction listing
- If the fixed price listing has only one item, it will be ended when the auction listing is created
- If the fixed price listing has more than one item, one item will be sent to the auction listing and the quantity in the fixed price listing will decrease by one

If you'd like to sell a different item, you'll need to create a new listing for the item, instead of editing an existing listing
