

eBay fees

GUIDE.SUMMARY What If you're a seller on eBay, you may encounter a variety of eBay fees. Fees are charged automatically at the time they are incurred. When When you list an item on eBay, you may be charged a listing (or insertion) fee. If an item sells, you'll be charged a final value fee. Final value fees are calculated based on the total amount of the sale, including shipping and tax, and are charged per item. Final Value Fees are charged based on the rate applicable when the item sells, NOT the date on which the item is listed. If you're listing in Motors, you're not charged a final value fee. See <https://www.ebay.com/help/selling/fees-credits-invoices/motors-fees?id=4127> Fees for selling vehicles on eBay Motors. If you add listing upgrades to your listings, upgrade fees may apply. If you ship to another country, an international fee may apply. How In Seller Hub, select Payments All transactions to see the fees you've been charged. In My eBay, select Account Payments All Transactions to see the fees you've been charged.

GUIDE.TALKING_POINTS

General Fees What a new seller should know

There are no start-up fees to sell on eBay, but we do charge fees when an item sells, an insertion fee when applicable, and fees for upgrades on listings.

Insertion fees are free for your first 250 listings per calendar month.(some exclusions apply, see the https://cskb.qa.ebay.com/cskbapp/art?page_content&id=GUIDE1094&ViewLocale=en_US#ziflink related link above)

Learn what your fees will be in advance

There are multiple places you can check to learn what your fees will be in advance.

Before you list your item on the site, you can check the bottom of the listing form to see your fees so far. The total includes insertion fees as well as fees for any optional listing upgrades you selected.

If you'd like to

Why do you charge fees?

We charge fees on our site to be able to provide excellent service. We constantly enhance tools and features to more easily assist you as a valued seller.

Internal Information

Consider

credit if no history, with the appropriate education. Test listings Though test listings may be created just for test or practice purposes, they are still assessed fees like any other listing on the site. An item didn't sell and the seller wants credit for fees If your item doesn't sell, in most cases it can be automatically relisted for free so you won't pay any additional listing fees. Make sure to select the auto-relist option when you create your listing. Internal Information If the seller wasn't aware of these processes, consider giving a credit if no history, with the appropriate education. Viewing your eBay fees You can view your eBay fees by going to Seller Hub > Payments > All transactions or in My eBay, select Account > Payments > All Transactions. Why do you offer your employees a selling fee discount? Many companies offer their employees a discount on their products and services. Based on recent feedback from our employees eBay has implemented a similar program as part of our overall employee benefits package. Internal Information Contacts from media / regulators: If you are contacted by a member of the media, or a representative of a regulatory or governmental agency, please follow the guidance in GUIDE 1799 > Media / government contacts  Insertion Fees Insertion fees overview Insertion fees are free for your first 250 listings per calendar month (auction style or fixed price).  Multi-variation / multi-quantity listings fees We only charge 1 insertion fee per listing, regardless of the quantity / variations. However, you'll pay a final value fee on each sale. This may save you money as compared to making individual listings.

 Listing in 2 categories Adding a second category is considered an upgrade, so you will always be charged a listing/insertion fee for the second category (even if you still have an allocation of free listings) If you're listing in two categories, fees for optional listing upgrades will be doubled.  Final value fees Final value fees overview What are Final Value

Fees? A final value fee is a fee that we charge after you sell an item Final value fees are a percentage of the entire sale (including shipping, handling and tax), plus a fixed per order portion. Final value fees vary based on category, selling price, or having a store subscription Final value fees are deducted from your sales proceeds when the buyer completes payment. If your buyer wants to cancel, you can </a

<https://cskb.qa.ebay.com/cskbapp/art?page=content&id=GUIDE1136>> cancel the order to receive the final value fees back (the per order fee won't be credited if you cancel because the order is out of stock). You may pay increased final value fees for Below Standard or very high service metrics. See details below. Why am I charged a final value fee? This fee encompasses all of the services we offer, such as having a quick listing tool for you to get items up fast, invoicing your buyer, and more. This is how we maintain our site and constantly improve on the features we offer to our sellers. We find our fees are very fair vs. our competition. How is the final value fee calculated? We charge one final value fee which is calculated as a percentage on the total amount of the sale, plus a fixed per order component. For FVF pricing, please see the help hub fee pages.Links available at the top of this page. Final value fees are calculated on the total amount of the sale. This is the entire amount the buyer pays, including: Any handling charges Shipping service the buyer selects Sales tax Any other applicable fees. Is the fixed portion of the final value fee calculated per item, or does it apply to the entire transaction? The fixed fee is charged per order. An order is defined as any number of items purchased by the same buyer at checkout with the same shipping method. Does eBay cap final value fee totals? No, the final value fee charged is not capped. However, for high value items, a two-tier final value fee structure applies in most categories. Are sellers charged a final value fee on the total cost of the sale? The final value fee is calculated as a percent of the total amount of the sale (which includes the item price, shipping and any applicable taxes), plus a fixed charge per order. An order is defined as any number of items purchased by the same buyer at checkout with the same shipment method. Why was I charged a final value fee when I marked my item as paid? We normally apply the final value fee when a buyer completes checkout. For other sales (such as items with payment on pickup), we'll consider the transaction complete when the seller indicates that they have received payment, and we will assess the final value fee for that sale.

When marked as paid, the final value fee will only be assessed against the item cost.

Why was I charged a final value fee when I had a promotion for free listings?

We often have promotions geared towards free insertion fees which may seem like the entire listing is free.

We understand this can be confusing, but we recommend our sellers carefully check the terms of the promotion to understand what the promotion entails.

When a promotion says an item is free to list, we mean that the item is free to put up on the site. When the item sells, a final value fee will then still apply.

More about final value fees

We charge final value fees on the entire sale - this includes any shipping or other fees assessed by the seller, including sales tax charged to your buyer.

When you list an item in two categories, if the categories have a different final value fee %, the higher final value fee will apply when your item sells.

International shipping final value fees

If you offer 1-day shipping or international shipping options, in addition to cheaper options, we'll calculate your final value fees on your cheapest domestic shipping option. If you offer these as free shipping, we won't charge you a fee on the shipping.

If you only offer 1-day shipping or international shipping, you'll be charged a final value fee based on the cost of 1-day or international shipping because we have no other options to base fees upon for that listing.

Freight

shipping final value fees

- Any payment that a buyer makes on an item or transaction is subject to having final value fees charged on it, including shipping costs.
- If your buyer pays for freight shipping costs, they'll be included when we calculate final value fees.

Why shipping costs are included in final value fees

- The main reason for this is to discourage bad selling practices, such as over-charging for shipping. We want to make sure our market is fair to both sellers and buyers.
- We also see that it encourages sellers to offer free shipping, which often helps sellers increase their sales.

Combined shipping final value fees

- If you offered your buyer combined shipping, you'll pay a percentage on whatever the combined shipping cost was to your buyer.
- How is my the eTRS/Premium Service discount calculated?
- The Top Rated Plus discount is applied to the final value fee which is calculated on the total amount of the sale, including shipping and tax. The discount does not apply to the per order portion of the final value fee.
- Canada only has Top Rated but the discount still applies.

Is there a micropayment / microtransaction / Low ASP option for final value fees?

- No, not at this time.

Additional final value fees for BSTD/service metrics

Additional final value fees - seller performance/service metrics

- Sellers whose performance rating is Below Standard at the evaluation on 20th of the month pay an additional % on final value fees for sales in ALL categories during the following calendar month.
- Sellers whose rate of 'Item not as described' returns is evaluated as Very High in one or more categories at the evaluation on 20th of the month pay an additional % on final value fees for sales IN THOSE categories during the following calendar month.
- Sellers will only be charged one additional final value fee (i.e. sales subject to an additional final value fee due to Below Standard seller level won't also have an additional fee applied due to service metrics).

Why is eBay charging these additional final value fees (BSTD surcharge)?

- Your seller performance evaluation is based on how many of your transactions result in:
- Cases where the buyer didn't receive their item or it wasn't as described, but you didn't resolve it.

- Orders where you've had to cancel the transaction.

These are a bad experience for the buyer, and causes many of those buyers to buy less on eBay or stop using eBay altogether.

These types of situations are also time-consuming and costly to service for both the seller and eBay.

If a seller is evaluated as not meeting our minimum seller performance standards, charging additional final value fees is one of the consequences that may apply to their account.

- Why is eBay charging these additional final value fees (SNAD surcharge)?
- Having to return an item because it wasn't as described is a bad experience for the buyer, and causes many of those buyers to buy less on eBay or stop using eBay altogether.
- These types of requests are also time-consuming and costly to service for both the seller and eBay.
- For a small group of sellers who have very high rates of 'Item not as described' return requests in one or more categories compared to similar sellers, we charge additional final value fees on sales in those categories.

International fee When is the international fee charged

- US, CA, ROW: If a seller sells an item to a buyer whose registration address or delivery address is outside of their registered country, there would be a fee charged.
- UK, EU, CH, AU: If a seller sells an item to a buyer whose delivery address is outside of their registered country, there would be a fee charged.

Why is eBay charging an international fee?

- These fees reflect increased costs associated with international transactions.
- How can I block buyers with international registration addresses?
- To increase your chances of making a sale, you'll usually want as many potential buyers as possible. However, we understand you may not want to sell outside of the US/CA, or there may be certain regions or countries where you don't want to send items.
- Our buyer requirements features allow you to manage who can buy from you for example, by excluding shipping locations or blocking buyers based on certain criteria.

For more information, see our Help page on <https://www.ebay.com/help/selling/listings/creating-managing-listings/setting-buyer-requirements?id=4152> Setting buyer requirements (for CA, <http://www.ebay.ca/help/selling/listings/creating-managing-listings/setting-buyer-requirements?id=4152> click here).

- US, CA, ROW Only - Why are you charging me an international fee when the buyer's address is in my country and the currency is the same?
- We charge the international fee if (1) the buyer's shipping address is outside your country OR (2) the buyers registration address is outside your country.
- US, CA, ROW Only - Why am I charged an International fee on the buyers registration address but you dont charge UK, EU, CH or AU sellers based on the buyers registration address?
- eBay regularly evaluates and updates certain fees based on several factors, so we can continue to maximize value for buyers and sellers. These factors could include costs and customer feedback, among others.
- Does eBay plan to remove the international fee on buyer registration address for all markets?
- eBay regularly evaluates and updates certain fees based on several factors, so we can continue to maximize value for buyers and sellers. These factors could include costs and customer feedback, among others.
- Were always looking for ways to enhance the experience on our platform, and welcome your feedback as we assess and adjust fees. Were always listening to our sellers and will assess and adjust our fees based on seller feedback.
- We will keep sellers informed about future changes that might impact your account well in advance.

currencyconversioncharge Currency conversion charge What is the Seller currency conversion charge?

- When a buyer purchases your item in a currency other than your payout currency, eBay will convert the funds to your payout currency using a transaction exchange rate we set for the currency exchange.
- We may also convert your funds if we need to collect fees from you in a different currency than your payout currency (e.g. if you list directly on another site).
- The transaction exchange rate that eBay uses to convert funds is made up of:
- A base exchange rate (based on daily wholesale currency market rates), plus

- Our currency conversion charge

- See

https://cskb.qa.ebay.com/cskbapp/art?page_content&id=GUIDE1094&ViewLocale=en_US#Fee HH

Seller currency conversion charge in the fees help pages for the relevant rates for the region

- Internal Information

The currency conversion charge will apply if the buyer pays in a currency different from the seller payout currency. If the seller chooses to only list on an eBay site that has the same currency as their payout currency, we won't need to convert their funds.

Sellers won't see the currency conversion charge itemized out on their transaction statement/invoice. They'll simply see the final amount received (if a buyer had paid in a different currency) or charged (if they owed eBay fees in a different currency) after the funds were converted.

The % amount that eBay adds for currency conversion is based on the seller's registration site, not listing or transaction site. Sellers registered outside the US can check the fees Help page for their region to see the relevant rate.

Why are you charging me an international fee and currency conversion charge? Isn't it the same thing?

- International fees are for facilitating the transaction over an international border.
- Currency conversion is foreign exchange rates for converting to another currency.
- The international fee and seller currency conversion charges cover different services, being cross-border transactions and currency conversion

An international transaction may not incur a currency conversion charge, and vice versa.

Internal Information If asked for more detail (NOT FOR WRITTEN ANSWERS)

- For example:
- A US seller sells to a UK buyer on ebay.com using USD. The buyer wants order to be shipped to UK.
- In this example, the international fee will apply because they are shipping internationally, but the currency conversion will not, since the buyer paid in USD.
- A US seller sells to a US buyer on ebay.co.uk using GBP. The buyer wants the order to be sent to a US address.
- In this example, the seller would not be charged an international fee as the delivery address is also located in the US, but they would be charged a currency conversion since the funds have to be converted from GBP to USD.

Other fees Listing upgrade fees overview

If you add optional listing upgrades to your listings, fees may apply.

Fees are charged either per listing or per category if multiple categories are selected.

- Collectibles

Listing upgrade fees and revising an item

If you revise an active listing and only update basic information, such as your description, you shouldn't see a difference. However, if you add an upgrade (e.g., bold or subtitle), you may be charged a fee.

Even if the upgrade wasn't on the listing for the full duration of the listing, you still pay the same fee. We don't prorate listing upgrade fees.

If you remove an upgrade when you revise your listing, you won't receive a credit for the upgrade fee.

Fees for relisting an item

Fees for manually relisting an item are the same as listing the original item. Automatic relistings are generally free.

End auction early fees

If you end an auction early when there are bids on it, we charge you a fee equal to what the final value fee would've been if the item had sold at that price.

Ending an auction early is a bad experience for buyers, so we want to discourage this type of selling activity.

Dispute fees

If you are found responsible for a disputed amount, we charge a dispute fee. Internal Information See GUIDE1697 and GUIDE1759 for more information about this fee. Am I charged a fee for withdrawing to my Debit Card? (US only) If you are in a position to use a Visa or Mastercard debit card to receive payouts, then you will be charged for the payout. Debit cards allow you to receive the payout within 30 minutes or less. Sellers will be charged either an express payout fee or scheduled payout fee depending on whether they've selected on demand or a scheduled payout. See more information and amounts on Express or Scheduled Payout fees in our help pages. Fees for Debit Card payouts will be subtracted from their payout total. Find more information in the related Help hub page. You do not have to use a debit card. If you continue to use your bank account, you will not be charged for payouts. Debit Card payouts will have a limit of $50,000 per month. A seller could hit this limit daily, weekly, or at any point during the month. Excess payouts would go to the bank account on file for payouts. Motors category fees Motors category fees overview Note: Motors packages don't apply to Canada. The basic fees for Real Estate listings include the insertion fee plus the notice fee.

You will not be charged a Final Value Fee for Real Estate listings.

You can review these fees at: <https://www.ebay.com/help/selling/fees-credits-invoices/selling-fees?id=4822#section4>

The insertion fee is based on the listing type and duration.

The notice fee depends on the item category you select. In most cases, you'll be charged a notice fee whether or not you carry out the sale with the buyer.

- You're not charged a notice fee if there are no bids on your item or the bids don't reach your reserve price.
- You're not charged a notice fee if your listing is in the Residential, Commercial, or Other Real Estate category.
- You won't be charged a notice fee if you listed under the Classified Ad format, unless you listed with a Best Offer option.

id="feecredits" name="feecredits">Fee credits Where can I find my fee credits?

- When you receive a credit, it will typically be applied to your available funds as a positive amount.
- If we charged your credit or debit card because there were no funds available for a fee charge, we may refund the fee back to the same method used to pay the fee.
- You can see this in the "Payments" section within Seller Hub or "Seller Account" within My eBay.
- Any credit given will show up within a day or two of being issued.
- I accidentally marked my item as paid and then marked it as unpaid, can I receive a final value fee credit?
- If you accidentally marked the item as paid and then marked it as unpaid, you still have the option to cancel the order. We can issue you a fee credit if we can confirm the order was not completed and/or the cancellation cannot be initiated.
- Will I receive a Final Value Fee (FVF) credit if the buyer is refunded?

- The percentage portion of the final value fee is generally returned to you in the event of a full refund or cancellation. We'll also credit the fixed per order fee in the following circumstances:
- If the buyer asks to cancel, or if you cancel the order because there is a problem with their shipping address.
- If you refund the order in full* when the buyer requests a return for a "remorse" return reason:
- Ordered by mistake
- Dont like it
- Changed my mind
- Doesn't fit
- Found a better price

*US, CA, AU only - Seller can exclude original shipping from the refund

If you voluntarily refund the order in full (including original shipping) using the Send refund flow.

If a buyer is partially refunded, a portion of the fees will usually be returned to you. The amount of the fee credits will be proportional to the amount of the refund the buyer receives. So if the buyer is refunded 20% of their original order cost, you'll receive credit for 20% of the eligible fees that you were charged.

If you deduct a portion from the buyers refund because they returned the item used or damaged, then you won't be eligible for fee credits.

If eBay steps in to help with a return or item not received request and the case is closed with a refund to the buyer, then you won't be eligible for any fee credits.

Internal Information

Exception: If eBay steps in to help with a return for an eBay Authenticity Guarantee item that is returned through the authenticator, you will be eligible for fee credits if the buyer is refunded.)

If my buyer is issued a refund on a transaction, will I be refunded any other fees?

We'll credit your applicable international fee, Promoted Listings Standard fee, and any additional final value fees for not meeting performance expectations. If the buyer is partially refunded, you'll receive a partial credit of these fees (proportional to the refund that the buyer receives). This applies when:

- You cancel the order.
- You refund a buyer for a return or an item not received request.
- You voluntarily initiate a refund on eBay.
- You accept a payment dispute and the buyer is refunded.

eBay

Ad Fee Standard: Fees for Promoted Listings Standard

Other fees: other order-related fees such as payment dispute fees. Internal Information

Other fees should not show up for Phase 1 but in later phases.

Shipping label and ad fees are charged at the time they are incurred, thus there may be a delay in those fees being reflected under Selling Costs.

Your order earnings will not take into account insertion fees, other listing fees, or subscription fees because they are not directly related or attributable to a sale.

Only fees relating to your specific order will be reflected in your order earnings.

Internal Information

Click here to see a screenshot of Order earnings.

The first section shows the seller what the buyer paid

The second section shows the seller what they earned, which will net out:

Any eBay-collected fees or taxes from the buyer

Any selling costs

These selling costs are dynamic, and will be shown at the time when they are charged. For example, transaction fees should show up as soon as the payment happened, but shipping label costs may show up later, when the cost is recognized on eBay

The What you earned section can be expanded or collapsed, based on the preference of the seller.

Where can I access a breakdown of my transaction fees?

In the Payments tab in Seller Hub or Payments in My eBay, select All transactions.

Find the order you'd like to view and select View.

See the Fee details section

GUIDE.DETAILED_INFORMATION Where and When a fee will be charged?

All fees and selling costs are automatically deducted either from the sellers available funds, or from the buyer's payment.

The type of fee or selling cost will determine when it is deducted and from where.

If there aren't enough funds to cover fees in the sellers available balance, we'll charge the sellers preferred payment method for fees and charges. Internal Information For more information on when we charge for negative balance, see here. If we charge a sellers account for fees not covered by the available balance it will show as one of the following: One time Payments made: eBay OTP {Charge ID} (Full) Any other charges such as refunds, shipping labels, Top Ups and fees: eBay C {Charge ID} (Full) Below is a table showing where and when a fee will be charged: <table border="1" cellpadding="2" cellspacing="0"> <tbody> <tr> <td colspan="1">Type of fee or selling cost</td> <td colspan="1">When the fee is charged</td> <td colspan="1">Where the fee is charged from</td> <td>Example of fee or selling cost</td> </tr> <tr> <td>Listing fees (any fee accrued by listing an item)</td> <td>At the time of the listing</td> <td>Available and Processing funds</td> <td>Insertion fees, listing upgrade fees</td> </tr> <tr> <td>Transaction fees (any fee accrued by selling an item)</td> <td>At the time of the transaction</td> <td>Buyers payment</td> <td>Final value fees, international fees</td> </tr> <tr> <td>Monthly fees (account level fees)</td> <td>At the beginning of each month
