

Offering combined shipping

When a buyer purchases multiple items from you, you can save time and money by sending all their items in one package.

Issue an invoice with combined shipping when buyers purchase more than one item from you. By sending everything in one package, you'll save time and the buyer will save money.

How to combine shipping fees if the buyer hasn't paid yet

If a buyer is purchasing multiple items from you, and they haven't already benefited from a shipping discount, they can select Request total from seller in their shopping cart. You can then send them an invoice with the new combined costs if you have combined invoices enabled on your account. Here's how to check:

- On the Shipping Preferences - opens in new window or tab page, select Edit beside Allow combined payments and shipping.
- Choose the time period during which you're willing to combine payment for purchased items and select Save.

- You can then issue a combined invoice to your buyer. To do this from My eBay: Go to the Sold - opens in new window or tab section.
- Select the items you want to combine into a single invoice.
- Add the new shipping charge.
- From the Actions menu, select Send Invoice.
- To issue a combined invoice from Seller Hub: Go to <https://www.ebay.com/sh/ord>
