

PI - Protecting minors policy - Prohibited and Restricted Items

<h2>GUIDE.SUMMARY

What is the policy?

 We don't allow listings with the following or similar items or descriptions: Images of minors who are not fully clothed

Images of minors where the item description is based on their clothing

Modeling photos of minors, even when the subject is fully clothed Listings that include the words "child", "children", "young girls", or "young boys" to describe an item containing nudity or sexual situations, even when the subject or performers are at least 18 years old, or the words are part of the product title Listings that include the words "teen",

"teens", "teenager", or "Lolita" in a sexual context, without indicating that the subject or performers are at least 18 years old Listings for minor anime, such as Shota-con, Lolicon, and similar or related items Why does eBay have this policy? This policy helps protect minors from compromising situations, even when listings are not intended to be sexual or pornographic in nature. <h2>GUIDE.TALKING_POINTS Models older than 18, inappropriate marketing Even if models are over the age of 18 years old, if an item is described in a manner to suggest that the item contains underage models, the item will be removed for inappropriate marketing. Unrated version of rated film

"Coming of age" films that have been rated by a recognized motion picture board go through a form of vetting process that indicates the item does not contain inappropriate content.

Some film versions that are rated come in an unrated version as well. These unrated versions are not vetted by motion picture boards, and, as such, eBay has no idea as to the content of the film. Our policy explained While eBay allows sellers to list most adult-type items on the site, many adult items are regulated in some form at the state or federal level. eBay has determined some items, though legal to sell to adults, should be restricted on eBay. </h2>
