

Creating 1-day listings

If you need to sell an item in a hurry, you can use a 1-day listing to try to find a buyer fast. 1-day listings are only available as auction-style listings, including those with the Buy It Now feature.

Changing the duration of a 1-day listing

You can change the duration of your listing up to 2 hours after you initially submit it.

You won't be able to change the duration of your 1-day listing if you've received bids on it. Tip When you create or edit a listing, your updates may not immediately appear on the site; don't worry if you can't see it or your changes right away.

1-day listing eligibility

You need to have a feedback score of at least 10 to create a 1-day listing; otherwise, the 1-day option won't be available. 1-day listings are not available for listings in the eBay Motors Vehicle or Adult Only categories in the United States or Canada. Some items may not be eligible for 1-day listings for safety reasons.

Relisting

If your item doesn't sell, we can automatically relist it for you up to 8 times to get it back in front of buyers. See our article on relisting items for more information.
