

Extended Producer Responsibility for business sellers listing on eBay.fr

<h2>Extended Producer Responsibility regulation aims to prevent and manage waste. Under this new law, manufacturers, importers, and eBay sellers are responsible for the entire life cycle of the products they sell.

</h2>

<h2><h3>Business sellers can now use eBay's updated listing tools to comply with the Extended Producer Responsibility regulation.</h3>

</h2>

<h2>The Law against Waste and for the Circular Economy, dated February 10, 2020, established the legal framework for extending the liability of producers, importers and sellers for the entire life cycle of products they sell to buyers based in France, including their end-of-life. Business sellers selling new items in certain categories on eBay.fr will need to add extra information to their listings. To comply with this law, you'll need to provide the following information when creating listings for your new items in certain categories:Unique Identification Number (UIN)Eco feesRepair scoreTake-back of old itemsIn some instances, you may need to contact a relevant eco-organism in order to provide some of the above information. An eco-organism is a company approved by the public authorities, within the framework of Extended Producer Responsibility (EPR), to manage the end-of-life of the equipment they put on the market (collection, sorting, recycling, and recovery of waste). Please be aware that you'll need to use the new listing tool - opens in new window or tab to be able to input relevant information to comply with the EPR regulation. Tip Listings that don't comply with this

Unique Identification Number (UIN)

You can find the UIN for your product by either contacting your supplier (producer in or first importer into France) or, if you are the producer in or first importer into France, by registering with a qualified producer responsibility organization. Here's how to add a UIN:

- Select Business Information under Account Settings.
- Scroll down to the Business details section and select Add next to the EPR FR number.
- Select a category from the dropdown menu.
- Confirm by clicking Add.

Tip If you sell products covered by the EPR to buyers located in France, but you fail to provide eBay with the valid Unique Identification Number(s) required for such products (including without limiting their packaging), eBay may decide to block visibility of these listings to buyers located in France or pay the corresponding Eco-participation fees on your behalf and charge them back to you.

Eco fees
If you're listing in the Furnitures and Electrical and electronic equipment (EEE) categories, enter the recycling amount in the Eco fees field. The amount will be automatically displayed on the view item page. You can find the Eco fees amount for your product by either contacting your supplier (producer in or first importer in France) or, if you are the producer or importer in France, by registering with a relevant eco-organism. Through the registration process, the eco-organism will provide the relevant fees grid for the categories concerned. Here's how to add the Eco fee:

- On www.ebay.fr - opens in new window or tab; choose either to create a new listing or to revise an existing listing.
- If you're still using the classic listing tool, select Try the new listing tool ("Essayez le nouvel outil de mise en vente") in the top right-hand corner.
- Go to the seller disclosures ("Conditions du vendeur") section and select Select your conditions ("Sélectionner vos conditions").
- Choose Extended Producer Responsibility ("Responsabilité élargie du producteur").
- Add a value to the Eco fee ("Eco-participation") field if you were subjected to a fee.
- Confirm by clicking Done ("Terminer").

Repair score

The repair score lets buyers know how easy it will be to maintain or repair a product. The product will get a rating of 1 to 10, where 1 is seen as not very repairable and 10 as highly repairable. You can display the repair score in the Photo Gallery of your listing. You should also add the scoring grid used to determine the repair score in the Photo Gallery or item description to help buyers understand your product's rating. You can find the repair score for your product by contacting your supplier (producer/importer in France). To start, the repair score applies to the following categories:

- Washing machines with windows
- Smartphones
- Laptops
- Televisions
- Electric lawnmowers
- Top-loading washing machines
- Dishwashers
- Vacuum cleaners
- High pressure cleaners

According to the law, this list may evolve in the future. To learn more about this regulation and the calculation method visit the <https://www.ecologie.gouv.fr/indice-reparabilite> Ministry of Ecological Transition - opens in new window or tab (‘Ministère de la Transition Ecologique’) website. Information in English is provided at the end of the page.

Take-back of old items

When listing in the below categories, if the buyer is located in France, as the seller you may be obliged to take back the buyer’s used product free of charge:

- Electrical and electronic equipment
- From 1 January 2022:
- Furniture elements, including upholstered seating or sleeping products
- Contents and containers of chemical products (if your annual turnover associated with such category exceeds 100,000 euros)
- Single-use fuel gas cartridges and fire extinguishers

From 1 January 2023: toys, sports and leisure articles, and garden and DIY articles (if your annual turnover associated with such category exceeds 100,000 euros)

You’ll first need to create your take-back of old items disclosure on www.ebay.fr - opens in new window or tab in the Account section of My eBay before being able to add your take-back of old items to a listing. Here’s how to create your take-back of old items on the eBay desktop site:

- Log on to eBay.fr with your login credentials.
- Select Summary (‘Récapitulatif’) under My eBay (‘Mon eBay’).
- Select the Account (‘Compte’)

tab.

- Go to Selling (‘Mes ventes’) and select Seller disclosures (‘Conditions du vendeur’).
- Select Create (‘Créer’) and choose Take-back of old items (‘Reprise des anciens produits’).
- Enter the contents of your disclosure and select Save (‘Enregistrer’).
