

Stocks and securities policy

Most stocks and securities are not allowed. Single-stock gifts or collectible stock certificates may be listed as long as they follow our policy.

The U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) regulates the sale of stocks and other security interests and, as such, they can't be sold on eBay.

What is the policy?

- Other than single-stock gifts and collectible stock certificates, all other types of stocks, securities, investments or credit are not

- allowed
- Collectible stock certificates must be canceled or represent an interest in an entity that no longer exists
- Single-share stock certificates marketed for gift purposes must follow these guidelines:
- The certificates are marked and advertised as non-transferable
- The ownership is not transferred into the name of the purchaser
- The minimum sale price is more than twice the current exchange trading price of the underlying single-share security

- Activity on eBay is required to follow this policy, the eBay User Agreement and all applicable laws, as well as respect the rights of third parties. If it doesn't, eBay may take action consistent with applicable laws and the eBay User Agreement and may even be legally required to do so. Such actions may include, as an example only: Removing the listing or other content, issuing a warning, restricting activity or account suspension.

Visit Seller Help - opens in new window or tab to find details of any policy issues with your account or listings, and get the information you need to quickly resolve them.

Why does eBay have this policy?

This policy helps sellers follow important government regulations.

id="section3">Helpful links</h2>U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) - opens in new window or tab</h2>
<h2>KW1 X1: Stocks and Securities,stock certificate,investments</h2>