Daily Deals are items from trusted sellers who are offering fixed price items at deep discounts (usually between 20% and 90% off) and free shipping. We have limited quantities of these items. We update featured deals at least once a day starting at 8 a.m. Pacific Time. And when we sell out of items during the day, we replace them with new deals. On newer deals you'll see a message that says something like "Added 2 hours ago." How is the discount on each Deal item determined? On each deal you will see two prices. The "strike-through price", which has a line through the numbers, is the generally accepted value of the item. The remaining price is what the seller is asking for that item, on Daily Deals. The percentage off you see is the difference between those two numbers. If you have any questions related to the pricing and/or discount offered in a Deal, please contact the seller. What is the maximum quantity of items I can purchase from a Daily Deal? This depends on listing and seller preference, though it's usually set at 5 units. After that amount, you will be prevented from purchasing more units of the item. Once the deal expires in the tool that Deals Ops loads the items into, you will then be able to repurchase. What is a Trending Deal? A trending deal is an item that is pulled into that position via an algorithm based on sales velocity.. All trending deals feature a significant savings off the list price and free shipping. How can I get my inventory featured on the Deals page? Deals
