TipItems purchased through GSP can't be delivered to P.O. Box numbers or APO and FPO addresses.<h2 id="section4"&gt;Buying from sellers using other shipping services</h2&gt;If your seller sends your item through an international shipping service instead of an eBay shipping program, you'll pay for the cost of delivery and VAT, if it applies, at checkout. However, you may still have to pay any necessary customs, duties, and import fees when your item arrives. Either your seller or their international shipping service will manage the customs forms.eBay is partnering with third-party carriers to provide affordable international shipping services for items that fit certain eligibility criteria. Buyers with a shipping address in Mexico can select href="https://www.ebay.com/cdp/help/freight/estafeta" international shipping with &lt:a target="_blank">Estafeta - opens in new window or tab</a&gt;, and buyers with a shipping address in China href="https://www.ebay.com/cdp/help/freight/hdb" can select HDB International Shipping Services - opens in new window or tab</a&gt; when purchasing eligible items.<h3&gt;Customs and import charges&lt;/h3&gt;As a buyer, it's your responsibility to check which customs and import charges may apply, and to pay them. These import charges are generally based on the item's price, weight, dimensions, and country of origin, as well as any taxes, duties, and fees added by your country. Your seller might be able to give you some information about import charges, but before you bid on, or buy an item, it's a good idea to check with your country $&#39$; customs office for more specific details. Import charges include<ul&gt;&lt;li&gt;Sales, goods, and services</li&gt;&lt;li&gt;Value added taxes</li&gt;&lt;li&gt;Duties&lt;/li&gt;&lt;li&gt;Tariffs&lt;/li&gt;&lt;li&gt;Excise taxes</li&gt;&lt;li&gt;Other amounts assessed or levied by any government authority in connection with the importation of goods into the applicable country of importation&lt;/li&gt;&lt;li&gt;Third party brokerage fees (including advancement and disbursement charges as well as&nbsp;customs brokers' handling and filing fees)</li&gt;&lt;li&gt;Penalties&lt;/li&gt;&lt;li&gt;Classification charges associated with the assignment of a Harmonized System (HS) classification code</li&gt;&lt;li&gt;Charges for export compliance screening and verification and the assignment of an Export Control Classification Number (ECCN)</li&gt;&lt;li&gt;Charges relating to the management of variances between the quoted import charges actual and costs</li&gt;&lt;/ul&gt;Import charges are in addition to the customs duties and taxes imposed by country tax and customs officials.<h3&gt;Importing items into the United States&lt;/h3&gt;If you are importing a high value item into the United States, the shipping carrier may&nbsp:reach out to you directly&nbsp:for more information. This is because U.S. Customs has asked the carrier to provide it with your tax ID number. A tax ID number is typically a social security number or an employee ID number.It's important to respond to the carrier's request promptly so that shipping is not delayed. If U.S. Customs does not have the information it requested, the carrier will be unable to import the item.
